INSEAD Abu Dhabi Centre for Executive Education and Research cordially invites you to:

“Do Women Make Better Leaders?”
A Round Table Discussion around Leadership, Coaching and Challenges with INSEAD Professor Elisabet Engellau

5:00 PM
22 October 2008

Eau de Vie Restaurant
InterContinental Phoenicia Hotel
Minet El Hosn, Beirut

ELISABET ENGELLAU focuses on leadership development and coaching in executive programs. She has been an affiliate professor at McGill University, a teaching fellow at Harvard University, and at Concordia University, Montreal. She has produced and directed video films for management education and is co-author of "Doing an Alexander: Lessons on Leadership by a Master Conqueror" (2004) and contributing author of “Coach and Couch” (2006). She has pursued academic studies at Uppsala, Harvard and McGill Universities and psychoanalytic training in Montreal and Paris. As independent consultant to corporations around the world, she combines her interest in creativity with a clinical approach to leadership development and organizational change.

KATTY MARMENOUT is a Research Fellow at the INSEAD Abu Dhabi Centre. She holds an MBA from Brussels University and is an advanced doctoral candidate in Organizational Behavior at McGill University. Katty acquired extensive professional experience in management consulting with KPMG and CGEY, and has worked on assignments related to change management, inter-group collaboration, organizational culture and social capital in a variety of contexts and industries. She was a visiting doctoral student at Chicago GSB and Kellogg School of Management, and a research assistant at the University of Geneva.

The aim of the Women and Leadership in the Middle East Initiative at the INSEAD Abu Dhabi Centre is to contribute to the knowledge and advancement of women as entrepreneurs and leaders in the Middle East. This is done in workshops, programmes and outreach. A research component is carried out by the INSEAD Global Leadership Centre and establishes leadership characteristics of executives in the Middle East, comparisons of the leadership characteristics of male and female leaders in the Middle East, and discussions of particular challenges faced by women executives and leaders in the Middle East.

RSVP:
Ebba Abdon, Project Manager, Women and Leadership in the Middle East, ebba.abdon@insead.edu
Rola Tassabehji, Associate Director, External Relations, rola.tassabehji@insead.edu